Brooke Thomas is a business leader, speaker, and international bestselling author known for activating women to elevate how they think, lead, and build. She has built multiple successful businesses and leads a global community of women who are building with purpose, conviction, and a desire to expand their impact.

Through her masterminds, live events, and mentorship, Brooke equips established entrepreneurs who have outgrown traditional strategies and are ready to expand into their next level of leadership.

Her community represents the top-performing women in business, with high-level leaders gathering inside her environments to elevate how they think, lead, and build. Her most exclusive mastermind, The Queen's Table, empowers the top 1% of successful women operating at the highest levels of leadership, revenue, and influence.

Brooke has developed leaders at scale and built high-performing teams across multiple industries. She is known for her ability to identify potential, strengthen belief, and help others step into greater levels of leadership, responsibility, and accountability.

She is also the founder of Love Out Loud, a nonprofit organization that brings women together to create meaningful impact by pooling resources and giving back.

Her journey began in 2004 with a stage three melanoma diagnosis during pregnancy, which became the catalyst for how she lives and leads today.

Brooke continues to live fully awake, anchored in faith, and committed to helping other women do the same.
